COMMISSIONERS AND BURGESSES BACKING CANCER WEEK CAMPAIGN

Adams County's three commissioners and the burgesses of the 11 boroughs in the county today joined in an issuance of a proclamation designating the week of July 14 to 20 as Cancer Control Week for the county.

Coincident with Cancer Control Week, the Adams County Unit of the American Cancer Society will conduct a one-hour "Lights On" campaign throughout the county next Wednesday evening starting at 8 o'clock. County residents are asked to turn a light on in the front of their homes or apartments so volunteer workers can call, distribute a cancer educational message and receive a contribution for cancer control work.

This is believed to be the first time that all of the chief executive officers of the county's chartered boroughs and county commissioners have joined together in the issuance of such a proclamation. Clarence C. Smith, chief clerk to the Commissioners, said.

The "little red schoolhouse" is rapidly becoming an institution of the past in Adams County. Only a few more than a score of the one-room buildings — not all of them red — remain in use.

Last Saturday when Auctioneer G. R. Thompson was selling Good Intent School at public auction for the Straban Twp. school district, he warned the crowd to "buy your school desks now, if you want them, 'cause there aren't many left."

Most of the school buildings sold by school districts all over the county in the last decade have been converted into private dwellings.

The history of many of them goes back three quarters of a century and more, and many folk who rose to prominence in the business and professional world had their start there.

Eddie Plank's Alma Mater Good Intent, sold last Saturday, was the site of Eddie Plank's debut in baseball. Plank, who became one of the "greats" in major league baseball history, attended Good Intent school. His parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. David Plank, owned a farm nearby.

Plank played on a school team there in 1896 and the late Robert K. Major, then teacher at Good Intent, was the first baseman on the neighborhood team. Old timers recall that squad played "all the teams in the county" and won them all until July 4 when they

The Gettysburg Camp of the Sons of Union Veterans Friday night laid plans to meet with officials of the local Methodist Church to determine what should be done about the graveyard to the rear of the Grand Army post building, E. Middle St.

BOOK LOANS AT LIBRARY LOWER DURING SUMMER

With schools closed for the summer vacation, circulation at the Adams County Free Library nosedived to 1,703 loans last month but that figure pushed the total circulation for the first six months close to the 70,000 mark and kept alive the hope that 1952 may see a new all-time high for circulation reached at the library this year.

Monthly reports on the operation of the library were presented Friday evening to the library's board of directors at the regular July meeting by the librarian, Mrs. Mary S. Wilson, and Treasurer L. S. Long.

The state's final payment of $1,881.25 for 1952 has been received. Mr. Long's report showed. Donations from the Upper Adams School system's student community chest fund and from the Upper Adams Joint District itself, totaling more than $160, helped boost library receipts for the month.

Here And There News Collected At Random

Probably no political convention in the history of our nation ever has been followed by Adams Countyans with as keen interest as yesterday's events at Chicago.

Never before had one of our neighbors, an Adams County farm owner, been a candidate for the presidency of the United States and when the Minnesota delegation made the dramatic switch to the Eisenhower column that started the landslide to the former NATO commander, the thousands gathered before their radio and television sets in this county felt a thrill of pride, a sense of closeness to the man of the hour.

It was only four weeks before, to the day, that General Eisenhower had stood in Lincoln Square to acknowledge the welcoming cheers of his neighbors in Adams County, enroute to his Cumberland Twp. farm where he officially greeted and played host to Governor John S. Pine and the big, important Pennsylvania delegation.

Local folk remembered yesterday that Ike had said here: "I sincerely trust and hope that I am addressing my future neighbors just as I know there are among you some of my old

CIRCUS COMING NEXT THURSDAY

Twice a year children find it pays to be good—when Christmas approaches and when the circus announces its annual visit. No one is much concerned about Santa Claus just now, but the other occasion which calls for good behavior is close at hand.

The Gettysburg Exchange Club brings the Hagen Brothers three-ring circus to town Thursday, July 17, for afternoon and evening performances at 2:30 and 8 o'clock. Doors will open at 1 and 7 o'clock, and the "Big Top" will be pitched on the Glenn L. Bream lot, bounded by Springs Ave., West St. and W. Middle St.

Aerial artists, equilibrists and gymnasts who scoff at the laws of gravity; animals trained by patience and kindness to do innumerable tricks; bespangled women and jesting clowns; riotous colors, pulse-quickening music, peanuts, popcorn, cotton candy and all the atmosphere of "Circus Day" will be offered for children and adults alike.

Heading the list of famous names on the circus roster are such acts as the Famous Ring Conleys, eight bareback riders; Miss LaLain, aerial artist; the internationally famous Con Concello, tight wire walker; an aerial ballet; Dixie, claimed to be the world's largest performing elephant; Clark's Canine Comedians; The Gordons, double trapeze act; a group of funny men headed by the well known clown and comedian, Speed Hart; an equestrian display of Shetland ponies, as well as the Hagen Brothers Circus black and white "Liberty" horses.

Adams Committee Sends Telegram To Ike In Chicago

The Adams County Committee for Eisenhower telegraphed its congratulations and pledge of "full support" to General Eisenhower Friday evening at the Blackstone Hotel in Chicago. The telegram went out over the signature of Henry M. Scharf, co-chairman of the committee.

The message follows: "Gettysburg is overjoyed and thrilled with your victory which clearly sustains the fundamental soundness of the American people and their belief that through you the nation will regain the vitality, self-reliance and prestige created and set forth by the founding fathers.

"Gettysburg and Adams County pledge complete support for your fight for victory in November.

Congratulations and all good wishes to you and Mrs. Eisenhower."

PRICE OF EGGS RISES SHARPLY MART TODAY

The price of eggs rose eight to 10 cents on the Farmers' Market this morning, large whites and browns selling for 70 cents a dozen, the highest price in weeks. They were 60 and 62 cents a dozen a week ago. Mediums were mostly 65 cents a dozen, and pullet eggs about 55 cents a dozen.

The market offered large supplies of cherries and raspberries, but the demand was heavy and they sold early. Sweet cherries brought 35 cents a quart box, and sour cherries 25 cents a quart. Black raspberries sold for 35 cents a quart, and red raspberries at 25 cents a pint and 45 cents a quart.

More new potatoes were on sale at the market today, mostly priced at 20 cents a quart box. New cabbage was six cents a pound. Air Force Is Staging War's Biggest Raid

SEOUL, Korea (P)—B-29 Superfortresses took off at dusk Friday to make an around-the-clock bombing of Communist installations in the North Korean capital the greatest allied air blow of the war.

Sixty-five Superfortresses followed waves of fast United Nations fighter-bombers which left Pyongyang, the capital, and its environs in flames during daylight raids.

More than 1,400 tons of bombs were loosed on the rubble area in a record 1,254 sorties—individual flights.

"Gettysburg's welcome to General Eisenhower and the visit of the Pennsylvania Republican delegation to Gettysburg and the Eisenhower farm was an important factor in the victory in Chicago," said Robert H. Matthews, of the national Eisenhower committee.

Matthews paid this tribute to Gettysburg and Adams County in a telephone call this morning from Chicago to Henry M. Scharf, co-chairman of the Adams County Committee for Eisenhower.

"Pennsylvania was a key delegation and the general's interview with the delegation at the farm undoubtedly had important results.

Spark For Chicago

"Everyone was impressed with the welcome accorded General Eisenhower by his neighbors and old friends and with the general enthusiasm that prevailed throughout the entire day. I am sure that much of what happened in Chicago was generated in Gettysburg that day."

John H. Basehor, county Republican chairman, said this morning "We will elect the next president of the United States."

Basehor estimated that Adams County will poll a majority of 4,000 for Eisenhower.

Told that the Adams County Committee for Eisenhower will remain intact and will assist in every way possible in the campaign and the November elections, Chairman Basehor said:

"We will welcome the Eisenhower committee and the support of everyone else. Adams County has a special interest in the presidential campaign and it shall be our objective to have the county stand in the forefront in support of our neighbor."

Fractures Nose When His Car Hits Bridge

Paul E. Beamer, 22, Biglerville R. 1, suffered a fractured nose, fracture of the right wrist, lacerations of the chin and nose and brush burns, when his car struck a concrete bridge one mile south of Biglerville on the Gettysburg road at 6:30 o'clock this morning.

State Police, who are continuing their investigation, said Beamer was headed north and drove into the bridge, completely demolishing his car. The damage figure, $125, is the total value listed for the make and year of the car he was driving.

He was removed to the Warner Hospital by ambulance for treatment.

Nevins Overjoyed At Ike Victory

Presidential Candidate Dwight D. Eisenhower's local farm superintendent and wife were overjoyed Friday afternoon with the selection of the five star general and local farm owner as Republican presidential nominee.

Mrs. Arthur Nevins said by telephone: "I don't know what to say, I couldn't be happier."

She added that she had been "glued to the television set and radio" during the convention, staying up to 2 o'clock in the morning Thursday and Friday.

General and Mrs. Nevins sent a congratulatory message immediately to General Eisenhower after learning of the first ballot victory at Chicago.

STORK OFF TO GOOD START ON NEW PEAK IN '52

The year 1952 so far promises to be a record breaker as far as births in the Gettysburg area are concerned.

During the first six months of the year, 465 births have been recorded in the Gettysburg district, including the borough and Cumberland, Freedom, Highland and Straban Twp., the local registrar of vital statistics, Ralph C. Geiselman, reported today.

The number of new children is 41 higher than the 424 for the first six months of last year. 1951 set an all time high record of 891 births during the 12 months and if 1952 continues as it has for the first six months in the stork department, the record should be shattered again.

The number of births for June, 68, however, was under June of 1951 when 76 babies were listed in the records. The number of deaths during June, 14, was also lower than the 16 recorded in June a year ago.

Mist Births, Deaths Here

As usual the greatest number of births occurred in Gettysburg, because most children are born in the hospital here. There were 35 male and 32 female births in the borough and only one birth, a male, in Straban, among the townships.

Most deaths also occurred in Gettysburg, with seven male and six female demises recorded in the town and only one death, a female, listed in the four townships. The death occurred in Cumberland Twp.

This year there were 75 births and 15 deaths in January; 83 births and 19 deaths in February; 81 births, 21 deaths in March; 86 births and 20 deaths in April; 72 and 17 in May, and 68 and 14 in June.

For the same months last year the number of births and deaths was: January, 56 births, 15 deaths; February, 69 and 24; March, 79 and 15; April, 66 and 10; May, 78 and 15, and June, 76 and 16.

CHICAGO (P)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower set out today on a Republican "shining promise" crusade for the presidency.

At the side of the 62-year-old general of the Army—who won the party nomination by blasting down four rivals on a single ballot yesterday—marched 39-year-old Sen. Richard M. Nixon of California.

Hand-picked by Eisenhower and his advisers for No. 2 place on the ticket, Nixon dramatized the new GOP bid for support of the nation's younger people.

The Californian, a former lieutenant commander in the Navy, completed an Army-Navy team chosen by Republicans at their 25th national convention. Nixon was unopposed for the vice presidential nomination.

"Thrill Packed Ballot"

Eisenhower took only one thrill-packed ballot to dispose of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Gov. Earl Warren of California, former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the presidential contest.

Acting swiftly to organize a campaign he said will be dedicated "to the shining promise of tomorrow," Eisenhower called available GOP members of Congress into a closed conference today to discuss policies.

He was reported to have given his approval for the selection of Arthur Summerfield of Michigan as the party's new national chairman, replacing Guy G. Gabrielson of New Jersey.

In a colorful take off for what both he and Nixon promised would be a fighting campaign, Eisenhower told a crowd of about 10,000 persons who filled only part of the seats in the stockyards convention hall at the final night session:

"It is more than a nomination I accept today. It is a dedication—a dedication to the shining promise of tomorrow."

Lists Aims

The five-star general laid down to the cheers of the party members these aims of the campaign he said he is prepared to lead: "To sweep from office an administration which has fastened on every one of us the wastefulness, the arrogance and corruption in high places, the heavy burdens and the anxieties which are the bitter fruit of a party too long in power.

"Much more, it is our aim to give to our country a program of progressive policies drawn from our finest Republican traditions; to unite us where we have been divided; to strengthen freedom wherever among any group it has been weakened; to build a sure foundation for sound prosperity for all here at home and for a just and sure peace in the world."

He knew, he said, that the battle ahead could not be won by a few or by divided or uncertain forces. This was a bid for support from die-hard backers of Taft, still bitter at their champion's knockout.

Eisenhower's three active but unsuccessful rivals pledged full cooperation with him in the campaign.

Said Taft: "I want to congratulate Gen. Eisenhower on his nomination and assure him I will do everything possible for him in his campaign and after he wins the election."

Here And There News Collected At Random

Probably no political convention in the history of our nation ever has been followed by Adams Countyans with as keen interest as yesterday's events at Chicago.

Never before had one of our neighbors, an Adams County farm owner, been a candidate for the presidency of the United States and when the Minnesota delegation made the dramatic switch to the Eisenhower column that started the landslide to the former NATO commander, the thousands gathered before their radio and television sets in this county felt a thrill of pride, a sense of closeness to the man of the hour.

It was only four weeks before, to the day, that General Eisenhower had stood in Lincoln Square to acknowledge the welcoming cheers of his neighbors in Adams County, enroute to his Cumberland Twp. farm where he officially greeted and played host to Governor John S. Fine and the big, important Pennsylvania delegation.

Local folk remembered yesterday that Ike had said here: "I sincerely trust and hope that I am addressing my future neighbors just as I know there are among you some of my old

CIRCUS COMING NEXT THURSDAY

Twice a year children find it pays to be good—when Christmas approaches and when the circus announces its annual visit. No one is much concerned about Santa Claus just now, but the other occasion which calls for good behavior is close at hand.

The Gettysburg Exchange Club brings the Hagen Brothers traveling circus to town Thursday, July 17, for afternoon and evening performances at 2:30 and 8 o'clock. Doors will open at 1 and 7 o'clock, and the "Big Top" will be pitched on the Glenn L. Bream lot, bounded by Springs Ave., West St. and W. Middle St.

Aerial artists, equilibrists and gymnasts who scoff at the laws of gravity; animals trained by patience and kindness to do innumerable tricks; bespangled women and jesting clowns; riotous colors, pulse-quicken music, peanuts, popcorn, cotton candy and all the atmosphere of "Circus Day" will be offered for children and adults alike.

Heading the list of famous names on the circus roster are such acts as the Famous Ring Conleys, eight bareback riders; Miss LaLain, aerial artist; the internationally famous Con Concello, tight wire walker; an aerial ballet; Dixie, claimed to be the world's largest performing elephant; Clark's Canine Comedians; The Gordons, double trapeze act; a group of funny men headed by the well known clown and comedian, Speed Hart; an equestrian display of Shetland ponies, as well as the Hagen Brothers Circus black and white "Liberty" horses.

STORK OFF TO GOOD START ON NEW PEAK IN '52

The year 1952 so far promises to be a record breaker as far as births in the Gettysburg area are concerned.

During the first six months of the year, 465 births have been recorded in the Gettysburg district, including the borough and Cumberland, Freedom, Highland and Straban Twp., the local registrar of vital statistics, Ralph C. Geiselman, reported today.

The number of new children is 41 higher than the 424 for the first six months of last year. 1951 set an all time high record of 891 births during the 12 months and if 1952 continues as it has for the first six months in the stork department, the record should be shattered again.

The number of births for June, 68, however, was under June of 1951 when 76 babies were listed in the records. The number of deaths during June, 14, was also lower than the 16 recorded in June a year ago.

Mist Births, Deaths Here

As usual the greatest number of births occurred in Gettysburg, because most children are born in the hospital here. There were 35 male and 32 female births in the borough and only one birth, a male, in Straban, among the townships.

Most deaths also occurred in Gettysburg, with seven male and six female deaths recorded in the town and only one death, a female, listed in the four townships. The death occurred in Cumberland Twp.

This year there were 75 births and 15 deaths in January; 83 births and 19 deaths in February; 81 births, 21 deaths in March; 86 births and 20 deaths in April; 72 and 17 in May, and 68 and 14 in June.

For the same months last year the number of births and deaths was: January, 56 births, 15 deaths; February, 69 and 24; March, 79 and 15; April, 66 and 10; May, 78 and 15, and June, 76 and 16.

CHICAGO (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower set out today on a Republican "shining promise" crusade for the presidency.

At the side of the 62-year-old general of the Army—who won the party nomination by blasting down four rivals on a single ballot yesterday—marched 39-year-old Sen. Richard M. Nixon of California.

Hand-picked by Eisenhower and his advisers for No. 2 place on the ticket, Nixon dramatized the new GOP bid for support of the nation's younger people.

The Californian, a former lieutenant commander in the Navy, completed an Army-Navy team chosen by Republicans at their 25th national convention. Nixon was unopposed for the vice presidential nomination.

"Thrill Packed Ballot"

Eisenhower took only one thrill-packed ballot to dispose of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Gov. Earl Warren of California, former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the presidential contest.

Acting swiftly to organize a campaign he said will be dedicated "to the shining promise of tomorrow," Eisenhower called available GOP members of Congress into a closed conference today to discuss policies.

He was reported to have given his approval for the selection of Arthur Summerfield of Michigan as the party's new national chairman, replacing Guy N. Gabrielson of New Jersey.

In a colorful take off for what both he and Nixon promised would be a fighting campaign, Eisenhower told a crowd of about 10,000 persons who filled only part of the seats in the stockyards convention hall at the final night session:

"It is more than a nomination I accept today. It is a dedication—a dedication to the shining promise of tomorrow."

Lists Aims

"To sweep from office an administration which has fastened on every one of us the wastefulness, the arrogance and corruption in high places, the heavy burdens and the anxieties which are the bitter fruit of a party too long in power."

"Much more, it is our aim to give to our country a program of progressive policies drawn from our finest Republican traditions; to unite us where we have been divided; to strengthen freedom wherever among any group it has been weakened; to build a sure foundation for sound prosperity for all here at home and for a just and sure peace in the world."

He knew, he said, that the battle ahead could not be won by a few or by divided or uncertain forces. This was a bid for support from die-hard backers of Taft, still bitter at their champion's knockout.

Eisenhower's three active but unsuccessful rivals pledged full cooperation with him in the campaign.

Said Taft: "I want to congratulate Gen. Eisenhower on his nomination and assure him I will do everything possible for him in his campaign and after he wins the election."

W. A. Rorer, who lost to Eisenhower in the primary, said: "I am proud to support Gen. Eisenhower and his running mate, Sen. Nixon."

A native of Abbotstown, he was a son of John and Leah Decker Kopman, and was a member of the New Oxford Social and Athletic Club and the New Oxford Rod and Gun Club. His wife, the former Blanche McIntyre, died February 17, 1944.

Surviving are five children. Mrs. Guy Kohr, New Oxford R. 1; Mrs. Ellis Stambaugh, Abbotstown; Mrs. Clair Mumper, New Oxford; Mrs. Robert Berkeimer, Abbotstown and Ralph Kopman, Jr., Hanover. Also surviving are eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services Monday morning at 10 o'clock from the Fred F. Feiser funeral home, New Oxford, with the Rev. Archie C. Rohrbach, pastor of St. Paul's Reformed Church, New Oxford, officiating. Interment in the New Oxford Cemetery. Friends may call Sunday evening after 7 o'clock at the funeral home.

DEMOCRATS SAY GOP HAS STRONG TEAM

By The Associated Press

Democrats predicted today they would whip the GOP Eisenhower-Nixon team in November. But most of those who commented agreed the Republicans nominated their strongest candidate for the presidency.

The big question now was: Whom will the Democrats pin their hopes on to beat Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, named the Republican standard bearer yesterday? They'll decide that in the Democratic National Convention opening in Chicago on July 21.

The November election will be no "pink tea" party for the Democrats, predicted James A. Farley, former Democratic national chairman. He told a convention of New York State young Democrats the Republicans had nominated "a very formidable candidate" and the Democrats must select a man qualified in every respect.

Predict GOP Defeat

Republican defeat was predicted by four candidates for the Democratic nomination—Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, Mutual Security Administrator Averell Harriman and Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia. So did Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, mentioned as a possible draftee for the nomination.

Kerr told Washington newsmen Eisenhower would be "a sadder but wiser general" after Nov. 4, that "the Republican party's record will be a handicap greater than he can overcome."

Harriman issued a statement in Detroit saying "however they try to conceal it, the fact remains that the Republican party is still the party of grim reaction as it has been for generations."

Kefauver and Russell messaged congratulations to Eisenhower. Each said he would be happy to campaign against the general this fall—and beat him.

year for U. S. scholarships, the students to visit here were selected by AFS overseas representatives and the U. S. State Department on the basis of democratic viewpoint, scholarship and potential qualities of leadership.

The purpose of this and the other five tours is to provide the students an opportunity to see the people, scenery, resources and industries of a large portion of the country and, in so doing, gain a firsthand appreciation and understanding of democratic life and aims. This is the fifth year in which AFS and Greyhound have cooperated on Traveling Scholarship Tours for different groups of international students and these projects have been highly commended by U. S. leaders in government, education and business.

Visit Historic Shrines

On these tours, the students will visit large industrial plants, department stores, universities and agricultural centers, and will see American historic shrines and spots of scenic beauty. Greyhound's cooperation was sought by the AFS for the Traveling Scholarship Tours because it is the only transportation system operating through all 48 states and able to carry students directly to all sightseeing points.

At every stop on their 24-day journey, the students are guests of communities and organizations joining in this demonstration of American hospitality. The students' visas do not permit them to work here in order to finance their own travel.

Official welcomes are being extended to the groups and their chaperons at all cities along their way by civic leaders and representatives of youth, service, business and labor organizations.

With school stations not operating, 416 book loans were made at the main library last month, two-thirds of them by juvenile readers. Library branches in county towns and rural book stations accounted for the other loans.

Mrs. Wilson announced to the board several gifts to the library. She said Mrs. E. S. Lewars has given a copy of Whitaker Chambers' "Witness" and Mrs. E. B. Romig gave a copy of "Valley Forge." Books which circulated last year on the bookmobile are being repaired, the librarian said. She said she is planning to attend a state meeting of county librarians later this month at State College.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — A warehouse fire that destroyed tons of government-stored crude rubber caused damage estimated "conservatively" at 30 million dollars here yesterday.

Sparks from a welder's torch in the warehouse area were tentatively blamed for the fire.

A new type of display is attracting a great deal of interest among young and old at the Adams County Free Library building on E. High St.

Several score mounted birds and animals, all of them native to America, and most of them found in this part of the United States are being displayed in a large glass-enclosed cabinet presented recently to the library by William Chritzman.

The collection was completed more than a quarter century ago by Mr. Chritzman's father, George Chritzman, an expert taxidermist, and represents the result of six years of work in assembling.

Many types of birds ranging from a big black crow to a hummingbird, parrots, a blue heron and a whitefish crane are displayed along with hawks, owls, bobwhites and many rare and common types of smaller birds. There are squirrels, too, and a still ferocious looking bobcat.

"When we received the collection, we thought it would be of special interest to the many children who visit the library," said Mrs. Mary S. Wilson, the librarian, "but we find that grownups are just as much interested in examining the new display as are the younger folk."

DEMOCRATS SAY GOP HAS STRONG TEAM

By The Associated Press

Democrats predicted today they would whip the GOP Eisenhower-Nixon team in November. But most of those who commented agreed the Republicans nominated their strongest candidate for the presidency.

The big question now was: Whom will the Democrats pin their hopes on to beat Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, named the Republican standard bearer yesterday? They'll decide that in the Democratic National Convention opening in Chicago on July 21.

The November election will be no "pink tea" party for the Democrats, predicted James A. Farley, former Democratic national chairman. He told a convention of New York State young Democrats the Republicans had nominated "a very formidable candidate" and the Democrats must select a man "qualified in every respect."

Predict GOP Defeat

Republican defeat was predicted by four candidates for the Democratic nomination—Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, Mutual Security Administrator Averell Harriman and Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia. So did Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, mentioned as a possible drafter for the nomination.

Kerr told Washington newsmen Eisenhower would be "a sadder but wiser general" after Nov. 4, that "the Republican party's record will be a handicap greater than he can overcome."

Harriman issued a statement in Detroit saying "however they try to conceal it, the fact remains that the Republican party is still the party of grim reaction as it has been for generations."

Kefauver and Russell messaged congratulations to Eisenhower. Each said he would be happy to campaign against the general this fall—and beat him.

STUDENT TOUR

year for U. S. scholarships, the students to visit here were selected by APS overseas representatives and the U. S. State Department on the basis of democratic viewpoint, scholarship and potential qualities of leadership.

The purpose of this and the other five tours is to provide the students an opportunity to see the people, scenery, resources and industries of a large portion of the country and, in so doing, gain a firsthand appreciation and understanding of democratic life and aims. This is the fifth year in which APS and Greyhound have cooperated on Traveling Scholarship Tours for different groups of international students and these projects have been highly commended by U. S. leaders in government, education and business.

Visit Historic Shrines

On these tours, the students will visit large industrial plants, department stores, universities and agricultural centers, and will see American historic shrines and spots of scenic beauty. Greyhound's cooperation was sought by the APS for the Traveling Scholarship Tours because it is the only transportation system operating through all 48 states and able to carry students directly to all sightseeing points.

At every stop on their 24-day journey, the students are guests of communities and organizations joining in this demonstration of American hospitality. The students' visas do not permit them to work here in order to finance their own travel.

Official welcomes are being extended to the groups and their chaperons at all cities along their way by civic leaders and representatives of youth, service, business and labor organizations.

GIANTS FALTER AS ACES FAIL IN MOUND DUTY

By RALPH RODEN

Judging by the brand of ball played by the New York Giants of late it appears the New Yorkers will have to stage another miracle run in order to win the National League pennant.

The Giants have lost six of their last eight starts and have fallen 5½ games behind the front-running Brooklyn Dodgers.

Most of the blame has been directed at the failure of Larry Jansen and Sal Maglie to match their victory pace of a year ago, but actually light-hitting and poor fielding has been chiefly responsible for the giants' latest woes.

New York expected to shake its slump at the expense of Pittsburgh's tail-end pirates but instead the usually docile Pirates have won two straight.

Murray Dickson beat Maglie, 6-2, yesterday.

Dickson was tagged for 10 hits yesterday but three double plays ruined the Giants' chances. Rookie Dick Groat drove home three runs and Ralph Kiner knocked in two on his 14th homer to lead the Pirates drive.

The Dodgers gained ground by edging the Chicago Cubs, 6-5. In other games, the Boston Braves tamed the Cincinnati Reds, 6-1, and the Philadelphia Phillies edged St. Louis, 4-3, in 10 innings to check the Cardinals' 10-game winning streak.

Yankees Beaten

In the American League, the St. Louis Browns upset the pace-setting New York Yankees, 6-3, but the world champions retained their 2½-game lead as the Washington Senators nipped the runner-up Chicago White Sox, 2-1, in 10 innings. The Boston Red Sox swept a doubleheader from Detroit, 16-5 and 5-3, and the Cleveland Indians downed the Philadelphia Athletics, 8-7.

The Dodgers nipped three Chicago pitchers for only seven hits including a home run by Duke Snider.

The Card winning streak came to an end when Gran Hamner and Willie Jones singled and Stan Lopata flew out in the 10th against relief ace Al Brazle.

Lefty Warren Spahn limited Cincinnati to seven hits while the Braves pounded out 15 against three Red pitchers.

The Browns halted their nine-game losing streak as Tommy Byrne stopped the Yankees on seven hits.

Ed Yost singled home Hal Keller with one out in the tenth to beat the White Sox.

Rookie Dick Brodowski breezed to his third victory in the opener at Boston. Billy Goodman led the Red Sox to victory in the second game, batting in three runs on a triple and three singles.

Eastern League

By The Associated Press

There will be a new satchem in the Eastern League Monday if the Reading Indians' gauntlet beats down the Albany Senators.

The Indians ran their winning streak to nine straight last night, as they flattened the visiting Senators, 6-4, in the opener of a four-game series. It was the sixth loss in a row for the Senators, whose eight-game lead has shrunk to two and a half in a single week.

In other games, Scranton hung on to take a 14-inning decision from the Hartford Chiefs, 5-4; Binghamton's triplets buried Williamsport, 14-1, and the Elmira Pioneers dumped Schenectady, 6-3.

Reading blasted three Albany hurlers with a 13-hit assault. Shortstop Mel Rue walloped his first home run of the season in the first, singled in a run in the fourth and rifled a two-run single in the eighth.

At Scranton, the Miners came up with two runs after Hartford had been handed a run in the top half of the 14th inning by fumbling Scranton fielders. Jake Crawford squeezed home the winning run with a drag bunt down the third base line that boosted his RBI total to 61.

The Schenectady Blue Jays out-hit Elmira, 12-3, but a believe-it-or-not first inning cost them the game. The activity included two walks a hit, a late throw to third on a bunt, a wide throw home on a slow roller, a balk and a wild pitch.

Five-run rallies in the third and fourth more than settled the issue at Binghamton.

The Texas Lunch advanced to a tie for third place with the Glenn L. Bream garagemen in the Softball League by defeating the Lentz Legion 8-3 in Friday's opening game.

A five-run explosion in the fifth inning gave the Texas Lunch the decision. Himes homered for the winners in the second. A single by McKenrick and an error gave the legionnaires a run in the fourth and in the sixth two more runs resulted on singles by McKenrick and Montfort and a double by Hensley.

In the fastest game of the season, which required but 55 minutes, the VFW pulled to within a game of the league-leading Moose by edging Swope's Atlantic in the nightcap 6-3. Clean hitting produced the runs for the winners. Jim Codori doubled and scored for Swope's in the second on two errors. In the third singles by Shaffer and Slaybaugh added a run. The final tally in the seventh came on Shaffer's hit and a miscue.

U. S. FORMALLY MAKES ENTRY IN OLYMPICS

By WILL GRIMSLEY

HELSENKI (AP)—They raise the Stars and Stripes today over the bustling American Olympic village of Kaepylae where Uncle Sam is girding for perhaps his greatest bid of these ancient games.

A 12-minute, swiftly paced ceremony at the gates heralds to the world that America is on hand with nearly 350 athletes and its eyes on scores of gold medal championships.

The United States watched from the sidelines the newest Olympic dispute involving Chinese representation in the Olympic basketball tournament.

The issue was raised again yesterday when the draw was made for a preliminary elimination tournament and places were left for both the Nationalist and Red China teams.

Both insist they should represent China. J. Sigfrid Edstrom, president of the International Olympic Committee, has told both they are ineligible because they're behind in dues.

The issue will be settled at a meeting of the IOC Congress next Thursday and Friday.

49 UNDER PAR IN ST. PAUL OPEN TOURNEY

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—St. Paul's Keller Golf Course—6,377 yards long from the back tees and rated par 72—is a public golf course built for the ordinary golfer.

Visiting pros competing in the $15,000 St. Paul Open Golf Tournament over the course are proving again that they play no ordinary game.

At the end of two days of firing, 47 pros and two amateurs boasted 36-hole totals that were under par. Two players—Henry Ransom, St. Andrews, Ill., and Al Bessellink, Escondido, Calif.—shot 64s on opening day. On the second day, five players shot 66s.

Ransom In Lead

Heading the field as the 77 low scorers tee off for today's third 18-hole round is Ransom. He counted a 66 yesterday for a 36-hole total of 130-14 under par. Second with 66-68-132 is Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and third is Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn., with 65-68-133.

In fourth place is Ted Kroll, New Hartford, Conn., with 65-69-134. Four are tied at 135. They are Bessellink, who soared to 71 from his opening 64; Johnny Palmer, Baden, N. C., 67-68; Roberto de Vincenzo, Buenos Aires, 69-66, and Ralph Blomquist, Eagle Rock, Calif., 67-68.

Defending Champion Lloyd Mangrum, Chicago, and Milton Marusic, Herkimer, N. Y., are tied at 137. Mangrum had a 67 yesterday.

JIM MARTZ TO COACH TORNADO

Martz goes to Waynesboro from Washington Township High School where he has served four years as head football, basketball and baseball coach. He also coached track.

He replaces Calbert E. (Cal) Weliver who resigned several months ago to accept a coaching post at Sayre, Pa.

In addition to being head basketball coach Martz will be assistant football coach.

Martz will receive $400 as head basketball coach and $250 as assistant football coach.

Martz was elected at the July meeting of the Waynesboro-Mont Alto Joint Board Thursday night.

7 SURVIVORS OF CRASH FOUND

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP)—A rescue team parachuted today to a crashed U. S. B-17 bomber in the Yukon and found seven survivors, including three seriously burned, reports to Royal Canadian Air Force headquarters said.

It was not known here whether the seven survivors comprised the entire crew of the ill-fated bomber. Previous reports had indicated the plane had eight or nine men aboard.

The bomber crashed last night 30 miles northeast of Snag, near the Yukon-Alaska border, on a flight from Elmendorf Air Force Base near Anchorage, Alaska, to Whitehorse, Yukon Territory, 1,000 miles north of Edmonton.

The rescue team which parachuted to the survivors was believed to be a U. S. Air Force rescue unit sent from Northwest, Alaska, about 65 miles northwest of where the plane crashed.

Suspend Sentence For Local Youth

An 18-year-old first offender was given a suspended sentence of one year in the State Reformatory for Moles by Associate Judge Patrick M. Schnauffer in Frederick Circuit Court Thursday morning on a charge of breaking into a Thurmont shop and stealing $8 in cash.

The youth was James Turner Roberts who went to Frederick county when his parents were employed at the Camp Ritchie "tunnel" project. When they returned to a former home in North Carolina, the youth remained in Frederick county and got work in Gettysburg.

One night in June, while in the Charles A. Harner place, he reportedly unlatched a window, then returned after the establishment was closed for the night and stole $6. The youth had no previous record and State Trooper Kenneth D. Bond, who investigated, said Roberts had caused no previous trouble in the community.

Judge Schnauffer advised the young man to return to North Carolina. The case came upon a criminal information filed by State's Attorney Charles U. Price at the request of the defendant.

Over Seven Million For Flood Relief

ROME (AP)—Italy received $7,500,000 in flood-relief for the stricken populations of the Po Valley, Calabria, Sicily and Sardinia. Last fall all four regions were badly flooded.

These figures, released by the Italian foreign ministry, are exclusive of contributions sent directly to the International Red Cross, and to the Pontifical Vatican Assistance Committee.

Ike, The Winner

CHICAGO (AP)—There is a great stir of speculation in Chicago today about the yawning patches of empty seats in convention hall last night when Dwight Eisenhower delivered his acceptance speech.

In other games, Scranton hung on to take a 14-inning decision from the Hartford Chiefs, 5-4; Binghamton's triplets buried Williamsport, 14-1, and the Elmira Pioneers dumped Schenectady, 6-3.

Reading blasted three Albany hurlers with a 13-hit assault. Shortstop Mel Rue walloped his first home run of the season in the first, singled in a run in the fourth and rifled a two-run single in the eighth.

At Scranton, the Miners came up with two runs after Hartford had been handed a run in the top half of the 14th inning by fumbling Scranton fielders. Jake Crawford squeezed home the winning run with a drag bunt down the third base line that boosted his RBI total to 61.

The Schenectady Blue Jays out-hit Elmira, 12-3, but a believe-it-or-not first inning cost them the game. The activity included two walks a hit, a late throw to third on a bunt, a wide throw home on a slow roller, a balk and a wild pitch.

Five-run rallies in the third and fourth more than settled the issue at Binghamton.

The Texas Lunch advanced to a tie for third place with the Glenn L. Bream garagemen in the Softball League by defeating the Lentz Legion 8-3 in Friday's opening game.

A five-run explosion in the fifth inning gave the Texas Lunch the decision. Himes homered for the winners in the second. A single by McKenrick and an error gave the legionnaires a run in the fourth and in the sixth two more runs resulted on singles by McKenrick and Montfort and a double by Hensley.

In the fastest game of the season which required but 55 minutes, the VFW pulled to within a game of the league-leading Moose by edging Swope's Atlantic in the nightcap 6-3. Clean hitting produced the runs for the winners. Jim Codori doubled and scored for Swope's in the second on two errors. In the third singles by Shaffer and Slaybaugh added a run. The final tally in the seventh came on Shaffer's hit and a miscue.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THESE BLESSINGS OF OURS

I got to thinking of my many blessings last night — and fell asleep naming them over! That's the way it is — we have so many blessings we forget all about expressing our thanks for them, and they come from all directions. God, however, is the greatest giver of them.

Most of us have reasonable health, many friends, a love of freedom such as few peoples ever have had, opportunities almost endless — if we grasp them as they appear, and the privilege to think as we please, worship as we please, and with the power to protest to the highest authorities without the risk of being shot for such privilege!

Not until we are deprived of many of our blessings do we come to realize their worth to us. When we are ill we think of the great blessing of health, and not until we have nothing do we learn what it means to have nothing!

Most of our blessings come to us "without money and without price." So many of them are the free ones in nature. The air, the sunshine, the beauty of the countryside, our rivers, lakes, the ocean. I am filled with wonder at so many varieties of flowers, birds, animals, and their purpose in the world. How easy it is to put ourselves akin to all in nature. Though endless books have been written about the glories and beauty of all things in the out-of-doors, no one has been wise enough to explain the reason for the endless creations.

If you get discouraged, look into the stary night when all is clear. Speculate upon all that is behind the heavens and the meaning of every star. If there wasn't a meaning the star wouldn't be there! If you look long enough, and reverently enough, you'll note God's footprints across the great expanse, and silent poetry will be composed within your soul!

Just Folks

THE CARELESS MAN
He dropped his hat upon a chair; He left his paper on the floor, And she would sigh to see them there.

Now they'll be missed forever more.

It often bothered her to see His bedroom sadly disarrayed. With just a little thought, and he Would save the extra care he made.

But now, no more with muddy feet He comes the floor she sweeps to track, And all about the home is neat. She'd like to have his footprints back.

The days and nights seem long, for he No more can cause her needless care, But she would smile with joy to see His hat upon the hallway chair.

SOME SAY PA. MISSED BOAT AT CONVENTION

CHICAGO (AP)—While Pennsylvania's 53 votes were a big factor in the nomination of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as Republican candidate for president, it was felt in some quarters that the Keystone State delegation really missed the boat.

Actually, Minnesota beat Pennsylvania to the punch. The Midwestern delegation of 28 sat back and waited for the opportune moment to swing their historic switch of votes that gave Eisenhower the nomination. If Gov. John S. Fine of Pennsylvania had been able to deliver all of the state's 70 votes on the initial ballot, Gen. Eisenhower would owe his nomination to the Keystone State.

Owlett Wouldn't Budge
Fine did have four more votes to make it 57 for Eisenhower, but he never got a chance to use them until after Minnesota's dramatic announcement of 28 votes for Ike and nomination on the first ballot.

Fine tried desperately in the last minutes of the initial roll call to get C. Mason Owlett, National Committee member and leader of the Taft forces in Pennsylvania, to throw in with Ike, but it was no soap. Owlett wasn't budging, at least until it was too late for Pennsylvania to be the hero state.

One of the big mysteries of the convention was what prompted Gov. Fine to plunk for Eisenhower. He was really a Taft man for many days before the delegation went to Chicago. Fine would have liked Gen. Douglas MacArthur as the GOP standardbearer, but since the General wanted no part of it, Fine decided to back Taft.

Fine Changed
A reliable source says Fine changed his mind and went for Eisenhower after making a speech in his home county of Luzerne shortly before going to Chicago. The source says Fine was told by politicians in Luzerne that the United Mine Workers hated Taft and that carrying the county would be much more difficult with the senator as the nominee. They pointed out that the Taft-Hartley Law was like waving a red flag in front of a bull where the miners were concerned. They convinced the governor that the situation was the same in many sections of the state where miners and steelworkers predominated. The source says the governor realized Eisenhower could win Pennsylvania much easier than Taft.

Philadelphia's 12 delegates voted solid for Eisenhower on the first ballot.

friends here of 34 years ago" and recalled his last visit to Lincoln Square in World War I days.

They remembered, too, he had expressed the hope then that he could return to Gettysburg and "rock out my last days on the back porch under a comfortable and shady tree."

The Republican convention session at Chicago Friday evening probably also was the only national convention in which Adams County was mentioned by name on the floor.

The county's name went into the convention record in the words of Governor Fine when he took the floor to move that a roll call for the nomination of the vice presidential candidate, Senator Richard Nixon of California, be dispensed with. Nixon's name had just been placed in nomination and after seconding speeches the nominations had been closed.

Governor Fine rose to make his motion and to praise "this splendid pair of candidates."

"They both have Pennsylvania dust on their shoes," he said "Senator Nixon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Nixon, own a farm in York County, Pennsylvania, and in the adjoining county of Adams General Eisenhower has his farm. What a great all-Pennsylvania, all-American team," he exclaimed.

Adams County folk have reason to believe that General and Mrs. Eisenhower may soon change their legal residence from New York to Adams County and that their 189-acre farm, "Dega," may soon be called their home. They recall that

Truce Teams Meet For Brief Session

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—Rival truce teams met for only 25 minutes today in the new and secret effort to settle the prisoner deadlock and get an armistice in Korea.

The opposing delegations agreed to meet again at 11 a. m. tomorrow, (9 p. m. Saturday, EST) at Panmunjom.

Today's session was conducted in "basically the same atmosphere" which has prevailed since executive sessions began July 4, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckolls, official U. N. spokesman, said.

Truman Planning "Fair Deal" Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman was represented today as determined to insist on a fighting campaign on an all-out "Fair Deal" platform as the best hope of a Democratic victory in November.

A long-time Democratic associate of the President said today that Truman will oppose any "watering down" of the foreign and domestic proposals for which he has campaigned since he entered the White House.

This Truman confidant, who would not allow the use of his name, told a reporter he did not know as yet whom the President will support for the Democratic nomination.

four weeks ago when General Eisenhower was here, he greeted local GOP leaders with the assertion: "I'm here reporting for duty."

It's too soon to predict the size of the vote that Adams County will give "Ike" on November 4. The Democratic nominee remains to be chosen and campaign issues and strategy are only being drawn but there are many thousands of voters in Adams County who believe it was no idle promise of "complete support" that the Adams County Committee for Eisenhower telegraphed to the GOP nominee at Chicago Friday evening but rather an important forecast of what the figures will show when the votes are counted next fall.

Whatever the outcome of the fighting campaign launched last evening by Eisenhower and Nixon, it's going to be one that writes a new chapter in the history of Adams County.

ANOTHER TRY AT STEEL STRIKE

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Philip Murray, president of the CIO United Steelworkers, plans another meeting today with industry officials in an effort to end the 41-day nation-wide steel strike.

The meetings came soon after the industry said it would request the union help to get iron ore production moving again. About 23,000 iron ore miners who are members of the union quit in sympathy when Murray ordered his steelworkers to strike June 2. Steelmen say unless iron ore can be shipped soon they will be unable to stock enough to keep mills going full pace next winter. Iron ore can't be shipped on the great lakes during the winter because of the freeze.

Sources close to the secret meetings say more than the iron ore situation is being discussed—that negotiators are down to brass tacks in their collective bargaining.

When the strike began Murray insisted the industry give his men a 26-cent an hour pay package boost recommended by the Wage Stabilization Board. He also insisted on a union shop compelling all steelworkers to join his union. The union shop issue was considered the chief stumbling block now.

Would Enlarge Role Of Vice President

CHICAGO (AP)—Sen. Richard M. Nixon says he and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower have talked over how he could perform a more useful role than merely presiding over the Senate.

Nixon, nominated last night to be Eisenhower's running mate on the '52 Republican ticket, said Eisenhower favored enlarging the duties of the vice president.

At his first news conference since getting the nomination, Nixon said last night he had discussed the matter with Eisenhower a few hours earlier and that they went into the possibility that Nixon might serve as a liaison officer with Congress.

DES MOINES, Ia. (AP)—Four-year-old Ronnie Frey has a tractor just like the one belonging to his dad. It has three speeds forward and one in reverse. The miniature tractor is powered by a half-horsepower washing machine motor. The pint-sized tractor was made out of old automobile parts and bits of metal. The rear wheels are from an ordinary car.

TEN YEARS AGO

J. F. Slaybaugh Takes Office:
A new administration took over Monday morning in the office of the county superintendent of schools as J. Floyd Slaybaugh began a four-year term as superintendent of the public schools of Adams County — outside of Gettysburg — and Robert A. Bream started a term of the same length in the post of assistant superintendent.

Wedding: Sergeant George William Olinger, Carlisle Barracks, son of Jennings J. Olinger, Gettysburg, and Miss Mae Elizabeth Bream, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Bream, Gardeners R. 2, were united in marriage at 6 o'clock Monday evening in a double ring ceremony performed in Trinity Evangelical Reformed Church here by the Rev. Howard S. Fox.

Mrs. Fox served as the organist.

Brame — Miller Nuptials Held:
Miss Ethel M. Miller, Gettysburg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray H. Miller, Fairfield, and R. Eugene Brame, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Arthur Brame, Lincolnway east, were united in marriage at 8 o'clock Monday evening in the parsonage of the Lutheran Church in Taneytown, Maryland.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Alfred T. Sutcliffe, Mr. and Mrs. John Cann were the attendants.

Local Doctor Completes 50 years Service: Dr. Henry Stewart, who on May 20, 1892, hung out his shingle on Baltimore St., and began a long career of public service to Gettysburg, Adams County and the state in many official capacities, was honored Thursday at Harrisburg along with nine other physicians who have rounded out a half century of medical practice.

At the annual meeting of the Fifth Council District of the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania at the West Shore Country Club, Doctor Stewart received from Doctor Walter F. Donaldson, Pittsburgh, secretary of the State Medical Society, a 50-year testimonial certificate.

Steam Laundry Will Re-Open: James A. Knox, Steinwehr Ave., and Wilbur N. Knox, Breckenridge St., have announced the purchase of the C. Ray Rupp residence and the Gettysburg Steam Laundry property to the rear and expect to re-open the laundry on Monday.

The laundry was closed two weeks ago by Mr. Rupp after he had conducted the business for 23 years. Mr. Rupp has not announced any plans for the future.

Boys Leave For Outing: A group of approximately 30 boys ranging in age from 10 to 14 years, left Gettysburg Friday afternoon for a 10-day outing at Camp Ganoga, Boy Scout Camp, near York.

GOP Women Form Council: Mrs. Esther Hayberger, vice chairman of the Republican committee in Adams County, was elected to the presidency of the Adams County Council of Republican women at an organization meeting held Friday evening in the court house. About 50 women attended.

The other officers are: Vice President, Mrs. Sarah Doll, secretary, Mrs. Bertha Culp, and treasurer, Mrs. Jesse Hance. The installation was conducted by Miss Irene Eisenhart, York, and officer of the York County Council of GOP women.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THESE BLESSINGS OF OURS

I got to thinking of my many blessings last night — and fell asleep naming them over! That's the way it is — we have so many blessings we forget all about expressing our thanks for them, and they come from all directions. God, however, is the greatest giver of them.

Most of us have reasonable health, many friends, a love of freedom such as few peoples ever have had, opportunities almost endless — if we grasp them as they appear, and the privilege to think as we please, worship as we please, and with the power to protest to the highest authorities without the risk of being shot for such privilege!

Not until we are deprived of many of our blessings do we come to realize their worth to us. When we are ill we think of the great blessing of health, and not until we have nothing do we learn what it means to have nothing!

Most of our blessings come to us "without money and without price." So many of them are the free ones in nature. The air, the sunshine, the beauty of the countryside, our rivers, lakes, the ocean. I am filled with wonder at so many varieties of flowers, birds, animals, and their purpose in the world. How easy it is to put ourselves akin to all in nature. Though endless books have been written about the glories and beauty of all things in the out-of-doors, no one has been wise enough to explain the reason for the endless creations.

If you get discouraged, look into the stary night when all is clear. Speculate upon all that is behind the heavens and the meaning of every star. If there wasn't a meaning the star wouldn't be there! If you look long enough, and reverently enough, you'll note God's footprints across the great expanse, and silent poetry will be composed within your soul!

Just Folks

THE CARELESS MAN
He dropped his hat upon a chair;
He left his paper on the floor,
And she would sigh to see them there.
Now they'll be missed forever more.

It often bothered her to see
His bedroom sadly disarrayed,
With just a little thought, and he
Would save the extra care he made.

But now, no more with muddy feet
He comes the floor she sweeps to track,
And all about the home is neat.
She'd like to have his footprints back.

The days and nights seem long,
for he
No more can cause her
needless care,
But she would smile with joy to see
His hat upon the hallway chair.

MOSLEMS BATTLE MALARIA

CAIRO (AP) — Practically all available medical forces in Sudan Arabia were called on to battle a recent outbreak of malaria in the Moslem holy cities of Mecca and Medina. The Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said these strenuous health measures reduced the number of cases to 200.

SOME SAY PA. MISSED BOAT AT CONVENTION

CHICAGO (AP) — While Pennsylvania's 53 votes were a big factor in the nomination of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as Republican candidate for president, it was felt in some quarters that the Keystone State delegation really missed the boat.

Actually, Minnesota beat Pennsylvania to the punch. The Midwestern delegation of 28 sat back and waited for the opportune moment to swing their historic switch of votes that gave Eisenhower the nomination. If Gov. John S. Fine of Pennsylvania had been able to deliver all of the state's 70 votes on the initial ballot, Gen. Eisenhower would owe his nomination to the Keystone State.

Owlett Wouldn't Budge
Fine did have four more votes to make it 57 for Eisenhower, but he never got a chance to use them until after Minnesota's dramatic announcement of 28 votes for Ike and nomination on the first ballot. Fine tried desperately in the last minutes of the initial roll call to get G. Mason Owlett, National Committee member and leader of the Taft forces in Pennsylvania, to throw in with Ike, but it was no soap. Owlett wasn't budging, at least until it was too late for Pennsylvania to be the hero state.

One of the big mysteries of the convention was what prompted Gov. Fine to plunk for Eisenhower. He was really a Taft man for many days before the delegation went to Chicago. Fine would have liked Gen. Douglas MacArthur as the GOP standardbearer, but since the General wanted no part of it, Fine decided to back Taft.

Fine Changed
A reliable source says Fine changed his mind and went for Eisenhower after making a speech in his home county of Luzerne shortly before going to Chicago. The source says Fine was told by politicians in Luzerne that the United Mine Workers hated Taft and that carrying the county would be much more difficult with the senator as the nominee. They pointed out that the Taft-Hartley Law was like waving a red flag in front of a bull where the miners were concerned. They convinced the governor that the situation was the same in many sections of the state where miners and steelworkers predominated. The source says the governor realized Eisenhower could win Pennsylvania much easier than Taft.

Philadelphia's 12 delegates voted solid for Eisenhower on the first ballot.

friends here of 34 years ago" and recalled his last visit to Lincoln Square in World War I days.

They remembered, too, he had expressed the hope then that he could return to Gettysburg and "rock out my last days on the back porch under a comfortable and shady tree."

The Republican convention session at Chicago Friday evening probably also was the only national convention in which Adams County was mentioned by name on the floor.

The county's name went into the convention record in the words of Governor Fine when he took the floor to move that a roll call for the nomination of the vice presidential candidate, Senator Richard Nixon of California, be dispensed with. Nixon's name had just been placed in nomination and after seconding speeches the nominations had been closed.

Governor Fine rose to make his motion and to praise "this splendid pair of candidates."

"They both have Pennsylvania dust on their shoes," he said. "Senator Nixon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Nixon, own a farm in York County, Pennsylvania, and in the adjoining county of Adams General Eisenhower has his farm. What a great all-Pennsylvania, all-American team," he exclaimed.

Adams County folk have reason to believe that General and Mrs. Eisenhower may soon change their legal residence from New York to Adams County and that their 189-acre farm, "Dega," may soon be called their home. They recall that

Truce Teams Meet For Brief Session

MUNSAN, Korea (AP) — Rival truce teams met for only 26 minutes today in the new and secret effort to settle the prisoner deadlock and get an armistice in Korea.

The opposing delegations agreed to meet again at 11 a. m. tomorrow, (9 p. m. Saturday, EST) at Panmunjom.

Today's session was conducted in "basically the same atmosphere" which has prevailed since executive sessions began July 4, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckolls, official U. N. spokesman, said.

Truman Planning "Fair Deal" Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman was represented today as determined to insist on a fighting campaign on an all-out "Fair Deal" platform as the best hope of a Democratic victory in November.

A long-time Democratic associate of the President said today that Truman will oppose any "watering down" of the foreign and domestic proposals for which he has campaigned since he entered the White House.

This Truman confidant, who would not allow the use of his name, told a reporter he did not know as yet whom the President will support for the Democratic nomination.

four weeks ago when General Eisenhower was here, he greeted local GOP leaders with the assertion: "I'm here reporting for duty."

It's too soon to predict the size of the vote that Adams County will give "Ike" on November 4. The Democratic nominee remains to be chosen and campaign issues and strategy are only being drawn but there are many thousands of voters in Adams County who believe it was no idle promise of "complete support" that the Adams County Committee for Eisenhower telegraphed to the GOP nominee at Chicago Friday evening but rather an important forecast of what the figures will show when the votes are counted next fall.

Whatever the outcome of the fighting campaign launched last evening by Eisenhower and Nixon, it's going to be one that writes a new chapter in the history of Adams County.

ANOTHER TRY AT STEEL STRIKE

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Philip Murray, president of the CIO United Steelworkers, plans another meeting today with industry officials in an effort to end the 41-day nationwide steel strike.

The meetings came soon after the industry said it would request the union help to get iron ore production moving again. About 23,000 iron ore miners who are members of the union quit in sympathy when Murray ordered his steelworkers to strike June 2. Steelmen say unless iron ore can be shipped soon they will be unable to stock enough to keep mills going full pace next winter. Iron ore can't be shipped on the great lakes during the winter because of the freeze.

Sources close to the secret meetings say more than the iron ore situation is being discussed—that negotiators are down to brass tacks in their collective bargaining.

When the strike began Murray insisted the industry give his men a 26-cent an hour pay package boost recommended by the Wage Stabilization Board. He also insisted on a union shop compelling all steelworkers to join his union. The union shop issue was considered the chief stumbling block now.

Would Enlarge Role Of Vice President

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. Richard M. Nixon says he and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower have talked over how he could perform a more useful role than merely presiding over the Senate.

Nixon, nominated last night to be Eisenhower's running mate on the '52 Republican ticket, said Eisenhower favored enlarging the duties of the vice president.

At his first news conference since getting the nomination, Nixon said last night he had discussed the matter with Eisenhower a few hours earlier and that they went into the possibility that Nixon might serve as a liaison officer with Congress.

Always A Fighter, Ike Eisenhower Faces Biggest Battle

EISENHOWER

By AP Newsfeatures

GENERAL DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER has come a long way since someone, while World War II was hot, first mentioned his name in the same breath as the presidency. "Baloney," was his reaction then.

Even until he retired from the army and from NATO command in Europe, the word was he would not campaign actively for the Republican nomination. But that ended at Abilene.

"Ike" always has been a competitor. He was a leading high school athlete at Abilene, a semi-pro baseball player, a half back at West Point, and a boxer and fencer. He took up golf at 37, won a pilot's license in his forties. Born in Texas of a family of German ancestry that reached America in 1732, he obtained a West Point berth as a means of gaining a college education. He finished 61st in a class of 164 and an instructor wrote on his record "born to command."

In World War I he served in this country but got a medal for training tank corps troops. Afterwards in the Philippines he was chief of staff to General Douglas MacArthur.

Attracting the attention of General George Marshall in Louisiana troop maneuvers in 1941, his rise to command in Africa, Italy and the cross channel invasion was spectacular. He made hard decisions, obtained team play from his international army. Members of the German general staff rated him the greatest general of World War II for planning, daring and leadership.

It was his gift for leadership that got him the job of president at Columbia University, a job he left to organize NATO defenses in Europe.

CADET. At West Point, Dwight Eisenhower got average marks, put in two seasons of football.

HONORED. In Manila, 1939, wife pins Philippine medal on Lt. Col. Eisenhower.

WORLD WAR II. General Eisenhower, Allied Supreme Commander, and General Mark Clark in Italy in 1944.

VICTORY SMILE. World War II boss in Europe returns cheers of New York crowd on his return in 1945.

"WELL, I'LL BE DARNED!" Ike getting the news that Gen. MacArthur had been relieved of his Far East command.

PROUD GRANDFATHER. Ike first sees his grandson, Dwight David II, when he visits his daughter-in-law at the West Point station hospital in 1948. Capt. John Eisenhower, father of the infant, looks on.

"CALL ME IKE." When asked once whether he should be called "General" or "President" as head of Columbia, Eisenhower replied: "So long as I live, I shall most readily answer to the name of Ike."

GOLFER. Ike swings clubs on Florida links. A late starter at this sport, he scores in 80's.

COLUMBIA'S PREXY. Ike arrives at Columbia University to be installed as its head on June 7, 1948.

GREETINGS! Eisenhower gets smiling welcome from New York's Governor Dewey, a backer, during campaign.

Average Guy Had Rough Time On GOP Nominating Night

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Wilbur Peeble, America's most average guy, has gotten himself into serious trouble while attending the Republican National Convention. He tells about it himself in his letter to his faithful wife.)

By HAL BOYLE

CHICAGO (P)—Well, Trellis Mae, I just hope you can realize the spot I've got myself in by marching for Taft, Eisenhower, Warren and MacArthur.

I have overnight become the overnight All-American Republican and I have had to beat down a movement among the stockyards boys to name me for president.

Here's how it happened, honey, and that blonde who held my hand while the television camera was pointed our way was just joking—she said. Anyway, I didn't see her later.

Was Standing At Entrance

Well, dear, I didn't have a pass to get into convention hall, and, naturally, after a week of civic duty here I wanted to see what was going on.

I was standing at the entrance to the hall when a fellow came up to me and said, "How about carrying this banner into the hall?"

"Why, sure," I said. And for 40-odd minutes I muscled that sign saying "Win With Taft."

Well, after that, just as they were about to throw me out of the hall, an elderly man with a California accent thrust a "Win With Warren" sign in my hand, and said: "Carry on for a great Republican Democrat."

That was when I got hit by one of the circling paper saucers they were throwing up for fun. Of course, the saucer that hit me would have to have a stale hot dog covered with mustard on it. Honey, there is no way you can take mustard off a suit here for less than $2.50—and a letter of gratitude to the valet. There is no charge for the black eye.

Then they started the Eisenhower

ly for MacArthur at all. But he was a symbol—like the American flags they hauled out and hollered for.

The last banner I ended up carrying said, "The People Want Mac." I am not at all convinced that is true—but it is a possibility. The Republicans are kind of mixed up right now, and aren't sure whom they want.

And this letter comes to you from a tired, loving husband, tired of shouldering many banners.

Your Own, Wilbur.

P. S. I hate to bring up money again—but send me some more. I have to buy a round of soft drinks for all us banner carriers. We all agreed on only one thing—Governor Warren has the best-looking family.

Riding with Russell

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
by FREDERICK C. RUSSELL
Member S.A.E.

Usually the easy going motorist is the one with the engine that's hardest to get started.

Lack Of Experience

Perhaps it is a good thing that not all people who drive cars are sensitive to the latter's shortcomings. But it brings up an interesting point.

Why is it that such a high percentage of motorists do not sense basic faults in the various cars—those habits or tendencies which are undesirable as a matter of record? One observer believes that their cars are not up to standard in certain respects. In other words, he believes that admission of the facts might be construed as inability of the owners to shop wisely. My thoughts on this are different. I believe that failure to recognize errors in design is due largely to the public not having had sufficient experience with cars. Check around and you'll find that millions of motorists have driven but a comparatively few cars in their motoring career, and many have always been at the wheel of the same make.

Some people, for instance, think all cars have a fast clutch, just because their car goes off swiftly the minute they start lifting their foot from the clutch pedal. I am constantly surprised at the number of people who put up with hard brakes. Then there are those who constantly have to fight the steering wheel, not overlooking those who put up with chronic stalling.

One Less Worry

Something not every wheel twirler knows is that all cylinders of worn engines are somewhat out of round when cold. Also some of the best of pistons (these are the cam ground type) are not perfectly round until they heat up to normal operation temperature. These oddities are likely to confuse those who meet them for the first time. But don't take it seriously.

Still In The Running

What with all the new reasons for stalling it isn't any wonder that many motorists are overlooking some of the conditions that have been with us for years. It is true that icing of the throttle is causing many a mysterious cold motor stall, and often the stalling is due merely to too slow idling of cars with automatic transmissions (in an effort to check creeping). But why let these new conditions blind us to the fact that often a stall is due merely to disturbance of the fuel system by reason of a too sudden stop? Why overlook the effect of an incorrect float level? Why ignore the effect of wet ignition parts which cause trouble?

Mechanic Joe Speaking:

"Clutches have always been classified as slow, medium and fast, but if you notice that the clutch doesn't engage as quickly as it normally does when you lift your foot from the pedal there's a chance that the release fork and its shaft are binding. Unless these parts move freely there will be too slow clutch engagement.

"Such binding parts should be removed, freed up and then lubricated. If the trouble is allowed to become chronic it will not only interfere with running of the car but may result in a breakdown of the clutch throwout mechanism."

New Fluid Not Enough

While it is true that because shock absorbers are hard working units and become hot there is a certain inevitable amount of evaporation over a long period of use and need for new fluid should not be passed over too lightly. Always see that your mechanic checks to make sure there is no leakage of fluid. This will require more than casual inspection for the reason that the shocks are pretty dirty and should be cleaned off to reveal their secrets. In this cleaning process it may develop that they need replacing.

Thoughts While Trailing

Trailing behind an insurance company official the other day I was a bit amused at his over-caution, and then a little troubled by it. Like others in its field his company does considerable work along safety lines in an effort to make the public more conscious of the crying need for more thoughtful driving. However, his handling of the car suggested that perhaps he had reached the stage of being fearful. At no time were we traveling over 25 miles an hour, yet whenever his stoplights flashed he also gave me a hand signal. Starting was extremely slow, indicating a possible overdose of caution against jack-rabbit starting. I do not understand why he followed so closely to the white divider line since this tempted others to pass to his right.

All in all there was too much timidity—an extreme that often can be as much of a handicap as over-confidence.

For Future Reference

When replacing hydraulic rubber parts, or installing new ones, dip them in fresh brake fluid. The old parts, if re-used, should be cleaned with alcohol.

A growling noise in the rear end may be the result of the universal joint yoke being loose on the pinion shaft.

No work on the clutch, or over drive, is likely to be completely successful unless the engine is properly serviced.

Been Driving Fast?

There are ways of telling whether a new car has been given an over dose of high speed, and mechanics are not likely to overlook the evidence. One that few motorists would suspect of being a tell-tale is the depth to which insects are driven into the radiator core by excessively fast movement of the air passing through it. Checking of enamel on the exhaust manifold is another sign. And if the driver complains that the engine started bucking when he slowed down to go through towns he'll be told that this indicates that the excessive heat of too fast going caused the valve stems to over-expand and take up clearance.

Details That Save

One reason some drivers never seem to get into trouble is because they have a deep appreciation of details. I recall in particular the seasoned operator who, while driving a strange road at night, observed that we must be climbing a long grade because the motor temperature gauge was rising slowly but steadily. "We'll make sure about this," he announced, pulling over to the side of the road and stopping. When he accelerated the engine a few times the temperature gauge started to fall. "Just a grade," he concluded. And later we found that he was right.

I once saw this reversed. In this case the driver noticed that the car accelerated with strange ease. "It can't be that good," he observed. He, too, was right. The car was going down a slight grade.

Q. Should coil springs ever be replaced? I have reason to believe that the springs on my car are not what they should be. The car rides hard. J. N. B.

A. After a long period of use a replacement may be needed. Spacers can also be used to increase spring tension. The chances are that the hard riding in this case is due to the shock absorbers needing service.

Q. Do you think it is necessary to recheck ignition timing on the road after the timing has been set with a timing light?—Wm. L.

A. Not necessary, but certainly desirable. Most of the engineers prefer this re-check for best results. After all, individual motors have peculiar characteristics. So have the drivers.

Q. Is it reasonable to turn down the commutator of a starting motor the second time? F. B. S.

A. This isn't favored. Whenever the commutator is turned down as little stock as possible should be taken off.

Q. The engine of my car has a peculiar habit of galloping when I am driving in the speed range between 10 and 18 miles per hour. Below or above that everything is smooth. I have had the ignition carefully checked. Carburetor float level is right, and there are no traces of valve stickage. Hope you can put me right on this N. N. McV.

A. This looks like a case of a too rich mixture where the idling and high speed mixtures blend. I would try leaning out the idling mixture a little, and if this doesn't help then try a smaller high speed jet. The original owner of this car may have installed a larger high speed jet for power and speed.

Q. What do you think of leaning out the mixture for better gas mileage? G. R. W.

A. A mixture that is too lean will burn the valves at speed because it burns with a hotter flame. Your car is new and everything is in good condition, so any efforts to ward leaning the mixture may result in valve trouble, not to mention poor cold motor performance. The reason that leaning devices seem to be practical on older cars is because the mixture tends to become too rich with inefficiency.

Q. Which shock absorbers are the more important on a car—those at the front or those at the rear? T. H., Jr.

A. This is one of those things that could run into a lot of trouble. Let's just settle for the fact that inefficiency in either case causes instability and bobbing which, in turn, affects steering adversely.

Q. Is it enough with synthetic inner tubes to check tire pressures every few months? F. E. McC.

A. Synthetics do not lose air like naturals, but what of a slow leak or leakage at the tire valve? Better check and be sure.

Mr. Russell will answer questions operation of your car. Just address him at 254 Fern St., West Hartford, Conn., and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for a personal reply. There is no charge.

Then they started the Eisenhower

er demonstration, and the lady in front of me tossed away her Warren sign and said:

"If you can't carry for Ike you're yellow."

So I grabbed an Ike sign and followed her gamely around until she started talking to a widower from South Dakota—or was it North Vermont?

It became such a madhouse, Trellis Mae, that when they nominated Stassen I jumped up and grabbed a sign. Then somebody said, "We aren't yelling for Stassen now. This isn't 1948."

Well, the convention was killing time, and finally an oil man from Oklahoma got up and nominated General MacArthur, and said of him that he had "a name that won't die, and won't fade away."

The funny thing about the next 35 minutes of madness is that everybody joined in it. It was late at night and the delegates were very tired.

I don't think they were political.

Details That Save

One reason some drivers never seem to get into trouble is because they have a deep appreciation of details. I recall in particular the seasoned operator who, while driving a strange road at night, observed that we must be climbing a long grade because the motor temperature gauge was rising slowly but steadily. "We'll make sure about this," he announced, pulling over to the side of the road and stopping. When he accelerated the engine a few times he temperature gauge started to fall. "Just a grade," he concluded. And later we found that he was right.

I once saw this reversed. In this case the driver noticed that the car accelerated with strange ease. "It can't be that good," he observed. He, too, was right. The car was going down a slight grade.

Q. Should coil springs ever be replaced? I have reason to believe that the springs on my car are not what they should be. The car rides hard. J. N. B.

A. After a long period of use a replacement may be needed. Spacers can also be used to increase spring tension. The chances are that the hard riding in this case is due to the shock absorbers needing service.

Q. Do you think it is necessary to recheck ignition timing on the road after the timing has been set with a timing light? Wm. L.

A. Not necessary, but certainly desirable. Most of the engineers prefer this re-check for best results. After all, individual motors have peculiar characteristics. So have the drivers.

Q. Is it reasonable to turn down the commutator of a starting motor the second time? F. B. S.

A. This isn't favored. Whenever the commutator is turned down as little stock as possible should be taken off.

Q. The engine of my car has a peculiar habit of galloping when I am driving in the speed range between 10 and 18 miles per hour. Below or above that everything is smooth. I have had the ignition carefully checked. Carburetor float level is right, and there are no traces of valve stickage. Hope you can put me right on this N. N. McV.

A. This looks like a case of a too rich mixture where the idling and high speed mixtures blend. I would try leaning out the idling mixture a little, and if this doesn't help then try a smaller high speed jet. The original owner of this car may have installed a larger high speed jet for power and speed.

Q. What do you think of leaning out the mixture for better gas mileage? G. R. W.

A. A mixture that is too lean will burn the valves at speed because it burns with a hotter flame. Your car is new and everything is in good condition, so any efforts to ward leaning the mixture may result in valve trouble, not to mention poor cold motor performance. The reason that leaning devices seem to be practical on older cars is because the mixture tends to become too rich with inefficiency.

Q. Which shock absorbers are the more important on a car—those at the front or those at the rear? T. H., Jr.

A. This is one of those things that could run into a lot of wordage. Let's just settle for the fact that inefficiency in either case causes instability and bobbing which, in turn, affects steering adversely.

Q. Is it enough with synthetic inner tubes to check tire pressures every few months? F. R. McC.

A. Synthetics do not lose air like naturals, but what of a slow leak or leakage at the tire valve? Better check and be sure.

A Bit Of History About Your Own Adams County

This is the thirteenth in a series of historical talks given over Radio Station WGET by Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh, Adeline Sager professor of history at Gettysburg College, on some of the outstanding events and interesting episodes in the development of Adams County.

The Gettysburg Compiler for Monday, December 27, 1858, carried the following notice of interest:

"Death of an old slave. Died, on the 4th of November last, at Petersburg, York Springs, Pa. Patient Hack, but known more familiarly by the name of 'Old Tacey.' Her age was nearly 100 years, and she was perhaps the only slave then alive in Adams County or perhaps in the state. She was the survivor of a family of slaves belonging to the estate of Leonard Hatter, her husband and sons all having died long since, she was very kindly taken care of and supported by Thomas Stephen Esq. and lady up to the time of her death."

It will probably come as a surprise to most people of the county that as late as 1858 there should be mention of the death of a slave on the free soil of Pennsylvania, and especially in Adams County, which seemed to be so different from the area in which slavery still existed. But this news item is not so surprising when one considers the history of slavery in Pennsylvania. Let us consider both the history of slavery in this state and the history of the institution in Adams County.

Some Slaves In State
In the colonial period slavery was not an interest to any section, but it was more popular in the southern colonies because of the nature of the work to be done. Slavery existed in Pennsylvania, but on a limited scale because the work to be done was not particularly suited to slave labor. There was general acceptance of the institution, except among some of the smaller religious groups.

Indeed, the first formal protest against slavery was in the form of a vote against it by the Monthly Meeting of the Germantown Quakers in 1688. This action, however, was not confirmed by the Yearly Meeting of the society. Yet sentiment grew among the Quakers who came generally to disapprove the holding of slaves, until in 1776 slaveholders were disowned by the society. Mennonites were also in harmony with the Quakers in their attitude. In 1775 Quakers were the leaders in founding the Pennsylvania Society for the Abolition of Slavery. At the time of the Revolution there were only about 6,000 slaves in Pennsylvania.

The Revolutionary movement, with its emphasis upon the rights and freedoms of man, fostered a movement for the abolition of slavery, and of course it was in the north where slavery was less profitable and the institution was therefore less ingrained in the social scheme that it was successful immediately.

Set Age Limit
Vermont in 1777, Massachusetts in 1780 and New Hampshire in 1784 abolished it by constitutional provisions. It remained for Pennsylvania to be the first state to abolish the institution by legislative action. This act of 1780 provided that thereafter no one born in Pennsylvania should be a slave for life, but that a child of Negroes and mulattoes born of a slave mother after that date might be held in service until the age of 28, when he would become free. The act further provided that all living slaves should be registered by their masters before November 1, 1780, and that such as were not thus registered should be considered free.

From the provisions of this law we see that slaves were legally held in Pennsylvania after 1780, and continuing for many years thereafter. And of course, this was more likely to be the case in a border county like Adams. That it was the case we have abundant proof, the principal source being the assessment rolls of the county. The remainder of this article will be devoted to giving some details and conclusions resulting from a study of copies of some of these assessment rolls as they pertain to slaves held in the county, and upon their owners as they were assessed and taxed. Because the complete set of rolls was not used, what is said must be considered to be partial, but nevertheless suggestive, and accurate as far as it goes.

9 Slaves In County
Since Adams County was not created until 1800 the records before that are not at hand in the county. They are in the York County Court House. Therefore the earliest assessment of slaves under the new county's jurisdiction was for the year 1799. In that year there were in Cumberland township none slaves, seven women and two men, five of whom were assessed at a value of $100.

three at $150 each, and one at $25. It should be noticed that this is the valuation for purposes of assessment, and is not the selling price. The woman slave assessed at a $25 valuation was listed as owned by James Gettys, the owner of Gettysburg. The other Cumberland township residents listed as owners of the other eight slaves were Edward Hall, Henry Hoke, William McPherson, Alexander Russell, Raymond Ramsey, Thomas Sweeney and James Scott. In Berwick township in that same year assessments were made of four slaves, sex not specified. Two of these were listed as belonging to Nicholas Bittinger, and each was valued at $30; the others belonged to John Herman and David Slagle. In Franklin four slaves were listed, belonging to John Fletcher, Robert McMorris and Samuel Cobean, three valued at $80 each and one at $28. In Huntingdon township James Moore Jr. was listed as the owner of a slave 16 years old and one 12 years old, sex not specified, and no valuation indicated.

Records Vary
Very likely the records as they are available in the county are not complete for 1799, and much the same can be said for 1800. By 1801 the records appear to be more complete and by 1803 they seem to be entirely complete, except that assessment records for slaves in Straban township begin with 1808. Since there were ten slaves listed in that year it is hardly to be assumed that this was the first year that slaves were held there.

In most of the townships assessment ends in the 1820s but in a few cases it ends earlier than 1820 and in three cases it runs into the 1830s.

In Straban township Philip Groff (?) was assessed in 1831 for one slave at a valuation of $50, and in 1834 Richard Brown was assessed for one female slave at a valuation of $60. In Gettysburg borough in 1831 William Riley was assessed at a valuation of $10 for one slave and in Cumberland township William McGaughy was listed as having one slave at an assessed valuation of $50.

Through these years, 1799 to 1834, slaves were held and taxed upon in Gettysburg borough, and in 15 townships. There were only 16 townships when the assessment of slaves ended. Therefore only Latimore, created in 1801, reported no slaves assessed, but it is true that Hamilton, which was created in 1810, reported only one and only for the year 1811. This was for a slave owned by Dr. John B. Arnold, and valued for assessment at $100.

Prices Are Different
Huntingdon reported only three slaves for the entire period and two of these were under age, all ready mentioned as of 1799 and no value stated; the other was in 1828, valued at $100, and owned by T. T. Bonner. In Reading only one was reported as of 1823, valued at $50, property of William Long. In Menallen only one was reported. That was in 1803, at a valuation of $100, owned by John Galbraith. In Cumberland, Liberty, Berwick, Hamiltonban, Franklin, Mt. Joy, Germany, Straban, Mt. Pleasant, Conewago and Tyrone townships appreciable numbers were reported through the years, the numbers varying considerably.

For example, Franklin reported four slaves in 1799 and then only one for the years between 1801 and 1809, beyond which year there is no record.

Over the whole period involved here the township which seems to have had the largest number of slaves over the longest period of time was Hamiltonban, with Liberty following very closely and not too much ahead of Cumberland.

In Hamiltonban the largest number in any one year was 12 in 1803, in Liberty, it was also 12 in the year 1801 and 11 in 1805, but in other years the number was lower and the holding of slaves did not continue as long as the reports show it did in Hamiltonban. Cumberland had ten in 1800. Berwick also had more than average the number among the townships, with 11 in 1800.

The individual who, through the years, reported the largest number of slaves held in one year was Nicolas Bittinger of Berwick who in 1800 claimed five. The individual who through the years reported the largest holdings over the longest time was George Kitzmiller of Conewago, who reported four in 1801, went up to seven in 1803, then reported three for some years and then two in both 1824 and 1825. Others who had more than one slave were George Brinkerhoff of Straban, who reported three in 1801; James McSherry of Germany who reported four in 1801 and three in 1804 and Alexander McKesson of Liberty who reported three in both 1801 and 1803.

Sheriff Succeeds; Had Failed Before

LAPER, Mich. (AP)—A sheriff's raiding party, aided by a 60-man state police blockade, Friday evicted an angry and protesting widow from her long embattled farm.

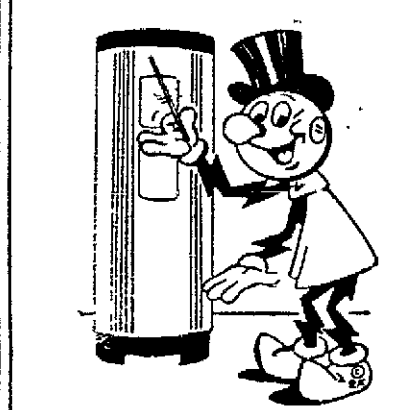

Returning to the scene where 39 days ago he was mauled by angry neighbors of the widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Stevens, Sheriff Clark Gregory led 12 special deputies in the early morning sortie.

Behind him blocking all roads in the area where 60 state police with orders from Gov. G. Mennen Williams to see that the law was enforced and prevent bloodshed.

The 20-car raiding party apparently caught the farmers, battlers in a 17-year-old insurance fight, by surprise.

Fewer Marriages, Divorces In Penna.

WASHINGTON (AP)—There were 4,733 fewer marriages and 1,452 fewer divorces in Pennsylvania last year than in 1950.

The Federal Security Agency reported there were 84,936 marriages in Pennsylvania last year compared with 89,669 in 1950. The comparable figures on divorces were 10,688 and 12,140 respectively.

The decline in both categories follows a national trend. Federal security said the 1951 marriage rate dropped to its lowest point since 1938, and the divorce rate to its lowest since 1951.

three at $150 each, and one at $25. It should be noticed that this is the valuation for purposes of assessment, and is not the selling price. The woman slave assessed at a $25 valuation was listed as owned by James Gettys, the owner of Gettysburg. The other Cumberland township residents listed as owners of the other eight slaves were Edward Hall, Henry Hoke, William McPherson, Alexander Russell, Raymond Ramsey, Thomas Sweeney and James Scott.

In Berwick township in that same year assessments were made of four slaves, sex not specified. Two of these were listed as belonging to Nicholas Bittinger, and each was valued at $30; the others belonged to John Herman and David Slagle. In Franklin four slaves were listed, belonging to John Fletcher, Robert McMorde and Samuel Cobean, three valued at $80 each and one at $28. In Huntingdon township James Moore Jr. was listed as the owner of a slave 16 years old and one 12 years old, sex not specified, and no valuation indicated.

Records Vary
Very likely the records as they are available in the county are not complete for 1799, and much the same can be said for 1800. By 1801 the records appear to be more complete and by 1803 they seem to be entirely complete, except that assessment records for slaves in Straban township begin with 1808. Since there were ten slaves listed in that year it is hardly to be assumed that this was the first year that slaves were held there.

In most of the townships assessment ends in the 1820s but in a few cases it ends earlier than 1820 and in three cases it runs into the 1830s.

In Straban township Philip Goff (?) was assessed in 1831 for one slave at a valuation of $50, and in 1834 Richard Brown was assessed for one female slave at a valuation of $60. In Gettysburg borough in 1831 William Riley was assessed at a valuation of $10 for one slave and in Cumberland township William McGaughley was listed as having one slave at an assessed valuation of $50.

Through these years, 1799 to 1834, slaves were held and taxed upon in Gettysburg borough, and in 15 townships. There were only 16 townships when the assessment of slaves ended. Therefore only 16 townships, created in 1801, reported no slaves assessed, but it is true that Hamilton, which was created in 1810, reported only one and only for the year 1811. This was for a slave owned by Dr. John B. Arnold, and valued for assessment at $100.

Prices Are Different
Huntingdon reported only three slaves for the entire period and two of these were under age, already mentioned as of 1799 and no value stated; the other was in 1828, valued at $100, and owned by T. T. Bonner. In Reading only one was reported as of 1823, valued at $50, property of William Long. In Menallen only one was reported. That was in 1803, at a valuation of $100, owned by John Galbraith. In Cumberland, Liberty, Berwick, Hamilton, Franklin, Mt. Joy, Germany, Straban, Mt. Pleasant, Conewago and Tyrone townships appreciable numbers were reported through the years, the numbers varying considerably.

For example, Franklin reported four slaves in 1799 and then only one for the years between 1801 and 1809, beyond which year there is no record.

Over the whole period involved here the township which seems to have had the largest number of slaves over the longest period of time was Hamilton, with Liberty following very closely and not too much ahead of Cumberland.

In Hamilton the largest number in any one year was 12 in 1803; in Liberty, it was also 12 in the year 1801 and 11 in 1805, but in other years the number was lower and the holding of slaves did not continue as long as the reports show it did in Hamilton. Cumberland had ten in 1800. Berwick also had more than

LAPEER, Mich. (P)—A sheriff's raiding party, aided by a 60-man state police blockade, Friday evicted an angry and protesting widow from her long embattled farm.

Returning to the scene where 39 days ago he was mauled by angry neighbors of the widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Stevens, Sheriff Clark Gregory led 12 special deputies in the early morning sortie.

Behind him blocking all roads in the area where 60 state police with orders from Gov. G. Mennen Williams to see that the law was enforced and prevent bloodshed.

The 20-car raiding party apparently caught the farmers, battlers in a 17-year-old insurance fight, by surprise.

average the number among the townships, with 11 in 1800.

The individual who, through the years, reported the largest number of slaves held in one year was Nicolas Bittinger of Berwick who in 1800 claimed five. The individual who through the years reported the largest holdings over the longest time was George Kitzmiller of Conewago, who reported four in 1801, went up to seven in 1803, then reported three for some years and then two in both 1824 and 1825. Others who had more than one slave were George Brinkerhoff of Straban, who reported three in 1801; James McSherry of Germany who reported four in 1801 and three in 1804 and Alexander McKesson of Liberty who reported three in both 1801 and 1803.

Fewer Marriages, Divorces In Penna.

WASHINGTON (P)—There were 4,733 fewer marriages and 1,452 fewer divorces in Pennsylvania last year than in 1950.

The Federal Security Agency reported there were 84,936 marriages in Pennsylvania last year compared with 89,669 in 1950. The comparable figures on divorces were 10,688 and 12,140 respectively.

The decline in both categories follows a national trend. Federal security said the 1951 marriage rate dropped to its lowest point since 1938, and the divorce rate to its lowest since 1951.

Sees Farm Peril In Steel Strike

WASHINGTON (P)—The American Farm Bureau Federation Friday said the prolonged steel strike threatens the nation's farmers with serious crop losses because of a tin can shortage.

It also means consumers may pay higher prices for canned goods, the bureau declared in telegrams to key administration officials.

Some crop losses already appear inevitable and the tin can shortage is growing more serious each day, the messages said. Steel is a basic part of tin cans.

CANDIDATES BUNCHED FOR CHICAGO RACE

By The Associated Press
The Democratic presidential nomination race rolled into the home stretch today with the field of candidates bunched so closely it appeared any of them could win.

As the Republicans moved out of Chicago, Democrats began taking over the city, with backers of each hopeful proclaiming his man as the one who could whip Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the GOP nominee. The convention battle opens next Monday.

The big question now was: Is Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois in the race. He insists he isn't but suggests he might accept a draft.

Stevenson's Position
"I have asked Illinois delegates not to put my name in nomination and I hope others respect my wishes," Stevenson reiterated in a Camp Riley, Minn., news conference yesterday. But he added:

"No politician can say he would refuse a draft."

Stevenson's attitude is especially significant because he is reported to be President Truman's choice for the nomination.

Sen. Richard M. Nixon, the Republican vice presidential candidate, told a reporter he thinks Stevenson is the strongest man the Democrats could pick to head their ticket. But the young Californian told newsmen who met his plane in Washington yesterday that the Democrats "cannot nominate anybody who can beat our candidate."

"A Lot Of Fine Candidates"
The possibility of the Democrats drafting a candidate was belittled by Gael Sullivan, campaign manager for Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee. He told reporters in Chicago "a draft would imply the bankruptcy of the party. We have a lot of fine candidates."

The first campaign headquarters to set up in Chicago was that of Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia. His spokesman, Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, told a Sunday news conference that the GOP choice of Eisenhower improved Russell's chances of being nominated.

Labeling the Republican civil rights plank as vague and formless, Sparkman said the Democrats would write one "far more fair and frank."

Doesn't Expect Walkout
He predicted there would be no Southern walkout from the convention over the civil rights issue—as there was in 1948. The first battle on this will come on Wednesday when the Platform Committee begins work, with four Southerners on the 20-member group.

A group of 53 Democratic congressmen announced they would urge a party plank calling for primaries in which the people could indicate their choice for presidential candidates. Such recommendations would not necessarily be binding on the convention delegates, however.

Backers of the proposed plank included Kefauver and campaign managers for Russell, Mutual Security Administrator Averell Harriman and Vice President Alben Barkley.

Gather This Week
The candidates planned to arrive in Chicago this week — Russell, Kefauver, Harriman, Barkley, Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, Sen. Brien McMahon of Connecticut and House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas.

None has anywhere near the 616 votes needed for nomination. In the latest Associated Press tabulation, Kefauver is leading with 252, followed by Russell with 117½ (not counting contested Mississippi and Texas delegations), Harriman 102½, Stevenson 54, others 259½ and uncommitted or in dispute 417½.

The possibility of a woman vice presidential candidate was raised by Mrs. India Edwards, Democratic national committeewoman. She said on a radio-TV program last night that organizations in 29 states are working for her nomination.

At the tempo of the Democratic campaign, the Republican candidates—defeated and victorious—appeared to rest.

Before hitting the campaign trail, Eisenhower planned to fly to Denver and a vacation. But first he set his house in order by signing his Army commission so he will be free to discuss all issues and he set up an eight-man advisory staff.

SAYS IKE WILL CARRY ILLINOIS

CHICAGO (P)—Former U. S. Sen. C. Wayland Brooks told Dwight D. Eisenhower today that the general will carry Illinois in the November presidential election even if the Democrats draft Gov. Adlai Stevenson to head their ticket.

Brooks, Republican national committeeman from Illinois, conferred with Eisenhower—the GOP presidential nominee—at the general's Blackstone Hotel headquarters.

After the conference, Brooks told newsmen he had come in to discuss "the Illinois situation" with Eisenhower.

Brooks noted that the 60-vote Illinois delegation to last week's Republican convention had lined up 59 for Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio and 1 for Eisenhower.

Brooks said that despite that situation, Illinois party workers will give Eisenhower wholehearted support.

"We will abide by the convention's decision," he said.

MISSING BOAT BEING TOWED IN

TARPON SPRINGS, Fla. (P)—A 36-foot boat missing overnight in the Gulf of Mexico with 20 pleasure fishermen aboard was being towed here today, all hands safe.

A FBY search plane from the St. Petersburg Coast Guard Base spotted the craft, the Liberty, soon after daylight, anchored about 20 miles west of here.

The plane remained in the area until the Plastras, sister ship of the Liberty, arrived to take it in tow.

The Georgiou Co. of Tarpon Springs, which operates both vessels, said the Plastras reported by radio the Liberty developed engine trouble late yesterday.

The Liberty was without radio and concern developed for the safety of those aboard when the craft did not return on schedule last night. The group had the advantages of mild weather and calm seas.

"In a pinch if it were essential to do so, we could employ other means."

He called the mass flight of Thunderjets bound from the U. S. to Japan an indication that "we are growing in air strength." The four-star general is on a tour of the battlefield.
